PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND IN GREATER NEW YORK.

Bird's Eye View, in Perspective, of the Future Metropolis of the New World Where This Wonderful Remedy Enjoys Such Phenomenal Popularity.

Greater New York! The time is fast approaching when it will be a reality. America is soon to have a metropolis which, in territory and population, will be a worthy representative of the giant republic of the world.

There are many interesting features connected with this formation of the greater city out of New York proper, Brooklyn and the smaller towns that are included in the districts to be annexed. Many problems confronted the prominent and eminent members of the commission which was intrusted with the making of the new charter, and, although they performed their arduous duties in a manner which won the hearty commendation of every one, there still remain numerous knotty points to be solved before the machinery of the immense municipality shall have been gotten into smooth and easy running order.

WHEN ALL AGREE.

But, however much the citizens of Greater New York may differ on other subjects, there is one upon which all seem to be agreed, namely, the wonderful curative power of Paine's celery compound, the peerless Spring remedy.

A twelvemonth ago a canvass was made of the popularity of Paine's celery compound in territory that is to be included in Greater New York. This canvass was among the druggists of the two big sister cities, New York and Brooklyn. It was the greatest canvass of its kind that had ever been known, and its results established the popularity of Paine's celery compound beyond all dispute. Those results were first made public in these columns on March 22, 1896. The article was the talk of the two cities, and all the adjoining territory. It was no ten days' wonder. People have not yet ceased to discuss it. The story spread far and wide, until it was known from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Gulf of Mexico to the northernmost cities of Canada.

The proof thus furnished that Paine's celery compound holds first place in the esteem of the public was quite convincing enough to obviate the necessity of any similar canvass for some years to come, but in honor of the birth of Greater New York it was resolved to make a second canvass, that would exceed even the extraordinary one of last Spring.

SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.

The exhibit speaks for itself. It consists of matter of fact statements from the leading druggists of Greater New York. These statements are made up of irrefutable facts. What do these facts show? That there is no falling off in the popularity of Paine's celery compound, but, on the contrary, a steadily growing demand for it; that it is the most sought after and most highly valued of all Spring remedies, and that the benefits obtained from its use are vouched for by a great multitude of intelligent and earnest men and women.

And yet when the history of this wonderful remedy is studied it is easily understood why its popularity is so enormous. Paine's celery compound is the world-famed discovery of Edward Elisha Phelps, M. D., LL. D., professor of materia medica at Dartmouth College. Professor Phelps's unusual talent established his reputation and prominence among his professional brethren. Appointed lecturer on materia medica and medical botany in Dartmouth College, he continued a member of the faculty until a few years before his death in 1880.

nerve and brain strengthener and restorer. Beyond doubt it was demonstrated that Paine's celery compound would cure nervous debility and exhaustion, neuralgia, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, malaria and all blood diseases. It was, moreover, as harmless as it was excellent.

IT IS FOR ALL.

Paine's celery compound is not a patent medicine; it is not a sarvered in Paine's celery compound will cure. The first bottle will benefit. The nerves will grow stronger, the digestive organs will gain tone, and health will be surely returning.

But the patient must not be in too great a hurry. The best plan is to buy half a dozen bottles of Paine's celery compound and use it faithfully according to the directions. This is urged, because so ache, rheumatism, liver and kidney troubles and malaria, Paine's celery compound is the only remedy that absolutely cures. It has done greater good to the human race than any other discovery of the nineteenth century, and well deserves the grateful praise of the thousands whom it has snatched from the jaws of death.

It will not do to neglect the little ills, the aches and pains, the "all other medicine which is so generally used and so largely sold in Greater New York. If there were the slightest doubt about it the canvass which is here spread before the public would quickly convince the most sceptical.

The testimonials that could be gathered from the inhabitants of Greater New York as to the good results that they have experienced from the use of Paine's celery ery compound. Don't allow any one to sell you something else when you want the best of remedies. There are some dealers who have so little regard for the health and lives of their customers that, for the sake of a few cents' extra profit they will urge their patrons to buy some worthless imitation or substitute when asked for Paine's celery compound, the remedy that makes people well.

Here is how you may know the genuine article from the imitation, the real diamond from that which is of paste. Every bottle of Paine's celery compound, as well as the pasteboard box in which it is packed, bears a label containing a picture of a bunch of celery and the words Paine's celery compound.

YOU WANT THE BEST.

In matters of health at life you cannot afford to take risk want and should insist upon getting the best medicine in the market. Paine's celery compound, the discovery of Professor Edward E. Phelps, D. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth Medical School, is to-day universally recognized as the best medicine in the world. It is the only one publicly indorsed and recommended by members of the United States Congress, by prominent ministers of the Gospel, by merchant princes and bankers, by students, and by thousands of men and women in every State of the Union, who, while not so prominently in public life, are not less worthy of confidence.

Do not buy Paine's celery compound from any pedler or agent. The genuine is never sold in the streets or from house to house. On account of the wonderful sale of this remedy there are few homes where its great virtues are unknown. Hence some rascals have made a dishonest living by selling a worthless concoction at 25 or 50 cents a bottle, saying it was Paine's celery compound, and that the proprietors were selling at this nominal price to introduce and advertise it. Don't buy any celery preparations unless both the box and bottle label bears the words Paine's celery compound, prepared by Wells, Richardson & Co., sole proprietors, Burlington, Vt. Then only will you be sure of getting the famous and genuine Paine's celery compound.

JUST READ THIS.

What medicine ever before made an offer like this? Here is a special request the proprietors make to the leading medical men of the country:

"Many physicians are prescribing Paine's celery compound with great success, having found it superior to all other remedies in the diseases for which it is recommended. We earnestly urge all physicians to write to us for the formula of Paine's celery compound, which we will mail on application, that they may satisfy themselves of its harmless character and great value. We are particularly anxious to have this compound tried in cases that have resisted the usual methods of treatment, that we may prove the truth of our statement—Paine's celery compound cures."

That coin has the true ring about it, has it not?

COMMON-SENSE REMEDY.

For a long time previous to his demise he was fully alive to the dangers attendant upon the American way of living, and he sought diligently for some scientific, common-sense remedy that would cure the common evils which, under one name and another, result from an unhealthful state of the nervous system. His labors were crowned with glorious success, and he gave to the medical profession the celebrated remedy which has since won worldwide fame as Paine's celery compound.

This remedy, which ever since has been freely used and prescribed by the most eminent of the profession, endeared Professor Phelps's name to the world, and made his life an era in the practice of medicine. The wonderful remedy was found to be all Professor Phelps had claimed for it, namely, a great saparilla; it is not a bitters or mere tonic; it is not an ordinary nerve. It is as superior to them all as Greater New York is superior to some backwoods town.

It is a medicine for the aged as well as for the young. The fact cannot be too strongly emphasized that Paine's celery compound is a physician's remedy, and, as such, is freely used and prescribed by many of the most eminent practitioners. The formula is furnished to reputable physicians, and hence they have the utmost confidence in prescribing it, for they know it to be as harmless as it is beneficial.

IT WILL CURE.

But it must be borne in mind that even Paine's celery compound cannot cure in one or two days a disease which has been coming on for years. A fair chance must be given to it and then it will do more than expected. If its use is perse-many people stop taking the medicine as soon as they begin to feel better, and then perhaps have a relapse, whereas if they used several bottles the cure would be permanent.

There is such a demand for Paine's celery compound that the druggist's stock is oftentimes sold out, and then the patient has to wait and suffer until more is received. As, however, it keeps perfectly, the last drops in the sixth bottle being just as full of curative power as the first, there is no chance of losing anything.

BANISH THE CAUSE.

Citizens of Greater New York, is it not extreme folly to take medicine to cure effects instead of using Paine's celery compound to get rid of the cause?

For all of those diseases which are really the result of weakened nerves, such as dyspepsia, head-gone" and tired feelings that the majority of people look upon as trifles. It must be remembered that delays are dangerous, and that the weak, irritable feeling of to-day may to-morrow be the terrible visions of nervous debility, sleeplessness, melancholia, paralysis, insanity or that dreaded paresis, which ends only in death.

IT IS PEERLESS.

While there is life there is hope. Yes, hope, provided that you use this great compound, and thereby strengthen the nerves, purify the blood and give health to both body and brain.

There are thousands of homes in Greater New York that have felt the wonderful benefits of Paine's celery compound, there are thousands of men, women and children in all ranks who have been saved from suffering by its use.

It is safe to say that there is no compound would by themselves fill a large-sized book. Everywhere the same praise is heard from those who have been so fortunate as to try this grand Spring remedy. If you, who read this, should be a sufferer from any of the ills described above, and, if you have not yet sought relief through Paine's celery compound, seek out some neighbor who has given the compound a fair trial, and ask him what he thinks of it as a health restorer. He will tell you that there is nothing like it, that it is the remedy of all remedies.

REJECT SUBSTITUTES.

If you want to be well and strong and rejoice in perfect health use Paine's celery compound. Its superiority over ordinary sarsaparillas, bitters and nervines has been proven in hundreds of instances right here in our own city.

And be sure you get Paine's cel-
